LINKS TO IMPORTANT SCIENTIFIC STUDY BY OHIO DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION

The Ohio Department of Transportation (DOT) sponsored a study performed by the University of Akron, conducting comparison tests of 6 commercially available salt removing products, Salt-Away being one of them. It includes laboratory tests on bare metals, coated metals, alloyed metals, corrosion creep, and presented cost benefit analysis, and proposal for strategy of recommendations.

Here are links that take you to the Ohio DOT website where there are 3 different reports of the study and their results.
